

SEPTEMBER 2022 EDITION

PACIFIC LOGISTICS GROUP

CORPORATE NEWSLETTER

This Month's Roundup of Stories

Announcements	2
The Hottest Ticket in Laos.....	4
Asia-Pacific nations, US vow to build more resilient supply chains	5
Our Sharing Hub	6

QUOTE OF THE MONTH

"Concentrate all your thoughts upon the work in hand. The sun's rays do not burn until brought to a focus."

- Alexander Graham Bell

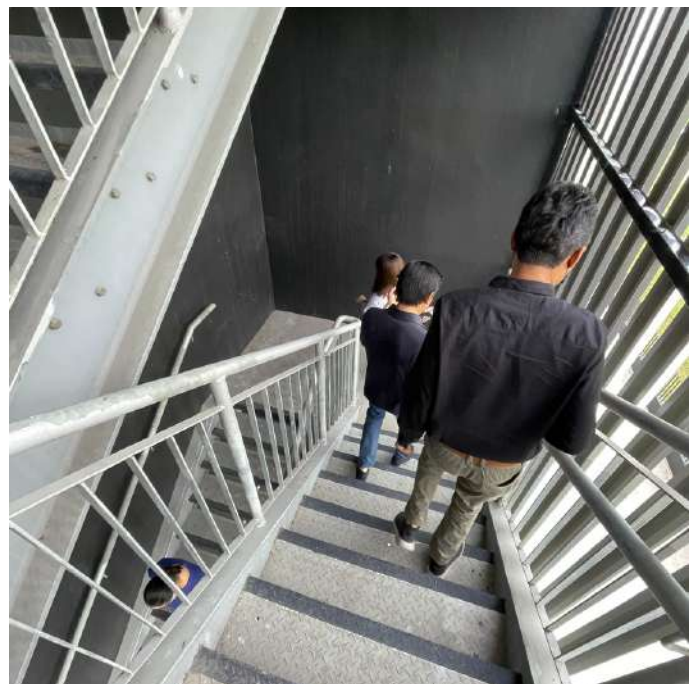

Announcement

Fire Drill Exercise

PLG performed its fire drill exercise on September 23, as a part of the month-long campaign to promote fire prevention and emergency preparedness organised by the National Fire and Emergency Preparedness Council in collaboration with SCDF.

Our Safety and Facility team tested their emergency response plans during this fire drill exercise and trained our staff on what to do in the event of an actual fire.

We've been awarded the MUIS Halal Certification

PLG has been awarded the MUIS Halal Certification, which gives us the ability to store and handle halal items for our customers. With this certificate, our customers can be assured that their halal products are being stored and handled in a proper manner.

PLG is now a registered trademark in Indonesia!

We are excited to announce that our Indonesia branch has successfully registered our logo as a trademark in Indonesia. This is a big milestone for us and we are thrilled with the outcome. We thank you for all support!

Regional News

The Hottest Ticket in Laos

The Laos-China railway has significantly enhanced trade and passenger connectivity within Laos and the region, and it is poised to be a crucial link between China and ASEAN. Despite the start of rail operations a year ago, there is still a significant demand for passenger tickets and more than a million tonnes of cross-border cargo have passed through this railway connection.

In the years to come, we believe that the Laos-China railway will play a more prominent role in inter-region trade, as it facilitates a higher flow of cross-border cargo. With our strong network of partnerships and experienced team in Laos, PLG is able to provide comprehensive, reliable and timely multimodal freight solutions to our clients between China, Laos and the rest of the region.

Click here to read more

Asia-Pacific nations, US vow to build more resilient supply chains

The outbreak of Covid-19 has shown us just how crucial it is to have a well-functioning and robust supply chain. The Indo-Pacific Economic Framework (IPEF), of which Singapore is a member, will be working on initiatives to improve industry openness and collaboration so that everyone is better protected against disruptions. A big part of this is investing in digitalisation initiatives and training people so that we have a skilled workforce who can operate these tools. This will be hugely helpful in propelling the industry forward into the future.

At PLG, we believe in being forward-thinking and are always working to optimise our customers' supply chains. We understand how important it is for our customers to have the most efficient supply chain possible, and we are committed to helping them achieve that goal. We create robust processes and implement real-time decision tools to help our customers streamline their supply chains. By working together, we can make sure that our supply chains are more resilient and can better stand up to future challenges.

Click here to read more

OUR SHARING HUB

In this month's sharing hub, we discuss how we tackle intergenerational and cross-department collaboration challenges.

Fostering inter-departmental and inter-generation collaboration

The way that supply chains operate has changed rapidly in recent years, due to the logistics sector evolving at a much quicker pace than it has in the past. This is largely due to innovations and advances in technology. Changing workforce demographics also mean that younger people are entering the industry while going into new job roles created by technology.

Collaboration is essential for a team to be successful. How do we bring together these individuals from different generations, with the knowledge, experience, and competence from other fields for cross-functional collaboration?

It is through communication and understanding of one another that we are able to bridge these gaps. To foster good working relationships, we recently organised an inter-department gathering with the customer service, procurement, marketing and project teams.

In a relaxed and informal setting, this gathering allowed our senior employees to impart their wisdom and experiences to our younger employees, and our younger employees to impart their viewpoints and knowledge to our older employees and coworkers from different departments. This openness and mutual awareness of how each person operates will contribute to better teamwork.

plg-logistics.com

Contact us at marketing@plg-logistics.com or email us to receive our monthly newsletter.